Regional Functional Needs Support Services (FNSS) Awareness Seminar for Emergency Management

Melanie Manville
City of Houston Office of Emergency Management

For the past three years, the city of Houston has hosted the “Regional Functional Needs Support Services (FNSS) Awareness Seminar for Emergency Management”. The seminars bring together local and regional first responders, emergency management, and FNSS community members to learn and coordinate emergency disaster planning. The seminars cover topics relating to the specific needs of the disable community during a disaster. This past year, topics included: service animal laws and legislation, shelter compliance, accessible communication throughout the disaster cycle, medical equipment needs, and inclusion in the evacuation process. Speakers are chosen by the seminar planning committee made of representatives of both emergency management and members of the FNSS community. This integrated planning team ensures a whole community approach to seminar planning. Each year the planning committee collaborates to choose relevant and significant topics to be covered during the seminar. Post-seminar surveys show the seminar is not only valued, educational event, but an important networking opportunity for members of both the emergency management and FNSS community. This integrated planning team ensures an integrated approach to emergency planning that will last long after the seminar is finished.

The seminar is traditionally held at one of the city’s multi-services centers, Metropolitan Multi-Services Center (MMSC) to showcase the city’s efforts to reach out to communities by offering multiple services for all people. The Houston Parks and Recreation Department's Adaptive Recreation Section located at MMSC was created to offer a variety of recreational, sporting and quality of life programming for people with disabilities. Opportunities include structured classes, a fitness room, and a full court gym, an indoor heated pool for use by people with disabilities, a beep baseball field, a tennis court, a quarter-mile track and an urban garden.

The “FNSS for EM” seminar will continue to be an important event for the Houston region as more diverse, whole community planning continues to be a mainstay for emergency management everywhere. The connections and partnerships created during the planning and the seminar itself; ensure an integrated approach to emergency planning that will last long after the seminar is finished.

Videos and transcripts of the presentations from this seminar can be found at http://www.houstonuasi.com/go/doctype/1532/107383. If you have questions pertaining to this program, please feel free to contact me at melanie.manville@houstontx.gov.

Texas Disability Task Force on Emergency Management

Katie Sanches
Texas Disability Task Force on Emergency Management Chair

The Texas Disability Task Force on Emergency Management was formed under the leadership of the Texas Division of Emergency Management and the Governor’s Committee on People with Disabilities in late 2011. This advisory group is tasked with developing and providing guidance and information related to preparedness and response that is inclusive of people with disabilities to state and local emergency managers. This task force is made up of emergency management professionals, disability stakeholder organizations, and rehabilitation and independent living professionals. Over the last 2 ½ years, this group and its subcommittees has developed guidance documents, training curriculum, and outreach initiatives.

The task force has four assigned sub-committees:

- Outreach and Effective Communications
- Functional Needs Support Services
- Training
- Planning

The subcommittees are actively recruiting members to assist with ongoing initiatives. Although, the meetings are held in Austin, conference calls and webinar participation are always available. We encourage people with planning, training, and preparedness experience, and disability stakeholders who are interested in assisting with this endeavor are to join our groups. See points of contact of subcommittee chairs on the last page of this newsletter for contact information.
Subcommittee Update

Each newsletter will feature an update on an initiative from one of the subcommittees on the Disability Task Force on Emergency Management.

Training

Danielle Hesse
Chair, Disability Task Force on Emergency Management
Training Subcommittee Chair

The Training Subcommittee is tasked by the Texas Disability Taskforce to develop and deliver disability awareness training and to support the development of disability integration and functional needs support services into current Texas emergency management and public health training programs.

Emergency Planning for People with Access and Functional Needs Training Course – T-197

During 2013, the subcommittee, in coordination with the TDEM Training Unit, diligently worked to rewrite the G-197-Emergency Planning for People with Access and Functional Needs course. The objective of this update was to incorporate people first language, new shelter guidance established by Federal Emergency Management Agency (FEMA), and address the whole community concept during planning and preparedness activities. Since the completion of the rewrite, the course has been changed to Texas 197 course. We also found added benefit by including a Department of Assistive and Rehabilitative Services Resource Specialist to the course delivery. This individual enhances the course by adding personal stories and emphasis on the importance of planning for those with functional and access needs. To date TDEM has hosted three T-197 training courses around the state and feedback from local governments has been positive.
